The Inter-Nos Tableaux.

Nothing that has occurred in society circles, this season, could be more justly pronounced a success than the entertainment given at the Devereaux House last Friday evening by the ladies and gentlemen of the Enter-Nos Club, assisted by a number of their friends. The Misses Jennings, as the costumes had done everything that could be done by way of preparation for the affair, and the selection of the tableaux and arrangement of the programme was a standing compliment to the ladies having that part of the entertainment in charge. Each tableau was preceded by which was warmly received, while the vocal selection of Mrs. W. W. Ritter, and the instrumental one of Mrs. Willard Young both received double recalls. Were we to judge from the applause of the audience it would be difficult to say which of the tableaux was the most effective; but, from the many compliments heard, we might conclude that Miss Jennings and Miss Young, in their tableaux with Mr. Wallace and Mr. Calne respectively, and Misses Dinwiddie, Hooper and Calne in Les Confetti, were the favorites of the evening for colored pictures; while, "Religion Consoling Justice," by Miss Dwyer and Miss Mamie Teasdel, was pronounced the most successful of the groups of statuary. Among the gentlemen, Professor Toronto, in Les Violons, is the only one that need be specially mentioned.

The supper was served on numerous small tables in the dining room, the members of the club acting as waiters and waitresses. That it was under the direction of the Misses Jennings is all that need be said in its praise. The guests were Mrs. M. M. Barrett, Mrs. Margaret Glasgow, Mrs. Dinwiddie, Mr. S. P. Teasdel, Miss Teasdel, Lieutenant and Mrs. Willard Young, Mrs. T. G. Webber, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Jennings, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ritter, Mrs. J. A. Eldredge, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Spencer, Mr. Jas. Dwyer, Mrs. Jos. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Paul, Mr. Wm. Carroll, Miss Taliaferro, Miss Louie Wells, Miss Mamie Neuham, Miss Cora Hooper, Mr. George Romney, Miss Lizzie Sharp, Mr. Frank Jennings, Mr. Walter Jennings and Mr. George Alder; and the members of the club present were Miss Grace Young, Miss Mamie Teasdel, Prof. J. B. Toronto, Miss Margie Dwyer, Mr. W. R. Wallace, Mr. J. E. Calne, Miss Sazie Sharp, Mr. J. E. Jennings, Miss Jennings, Miss Maye Jennings, Miss Dean Calne, Mr. Sam Barrett, Miss Hooper, Miss Alice Dinwiddie and Mr. L. W. Campbell.

The Coming Masonic Ball.

The Seventh Annual Grand Ball in aid of the Masonic Library will be given at the Walker Opera House, on Monday evening, December 28th, 1885. Invitations have already been issued, and a rule has been established that no body will be admitted except upon presentation of the card. The affair, this year, is in the hands of the following gentlemen, and a large number of society belles have already discovered that they have "nothing to wear" on the occasion and are eagerly planning new costumes: COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS AND EXECUTION—John S. The Owl Club.

The above is the name adopted by a party of young gentlemen of Ogden in the formation of a social organization. The following officers have been elected: F. B. Hurlburt, president; J. R. Williams, vice-president; John Kelly, secretary; John Hopkins, treasurer; executive committee, H. H. Hurlburt, A. M. Fleming, F. C. Schramm, J. H. Young and J. T. Fletcher. As the management of the club is in the hands of competent young gentlemen, its success is a matter of certainty.

The Knights of St. Denis.

The ball given on Friday evening under the auspices of this popular club added another success to the many that have been achieved by the gentlemen composing the organization. Nearly fifty couples were present.

Social Dancing Club.

Next Thursday evening the Social Dancing Club will give a grand opening ball in the Social Hall on Fourth Street. This club has been organized for the purpose of giving select dancing parties during the winter season and will also run a series of Terpsichorean entertainments during the holidays. All patrons of the Social Hall are respectfully invited to attend the opening ball. The services of Berke's excellent quadrille band have been secured by the club, hence the very best of music is assured. Members of the club will be accorded special privileges, and a fee of 50 cents is charged for membership. The committees are all well-known and popular gentlemen, and by joining the club advantages which otherwise would be lost may be obtained.—Ogden Herald.

The Excelsior Club.

The second of the series of socials to be given by the Excelsior Club on our tomorrow evening at 8.30 o'clock. The officers of the organization are: President, M. Friedman; secretary, J. L. Frank; treasurer, J. Goldberg. The committee under whose auspices the hop will be given is: J. J. Oppenwald, Jacob Moritz, Joe Oberndorfer.

The Theatre Ball.

The ball to be given in the Theatre on Monday evening, Dec. 28th, will be one of the most enjoyable ever held there. Preparations are being pushed actively forward. The invitation committee have almost completed their Herculean task, and the other committees are hard at work.

Odd Fellows' Reunion.

The members of the various lodges of the I. O. O. F. in this city will be seen in all their glory at the Ninth Annual Ball and reunion of the order, at their hall in this city on Thursday evening, December 18th. Refreshments will be served in Ford's Dining Parlors.

A Social Chat.

Bonnets are even made of alligator skins this season, both genuine and spurious. This kind of headgear is very appropriate for some women. Everybody talks about "gowns" and "garments" now, instead of dresses and wraps. Pour quoi? Because it is English—quite English, you know. A whole, hilariously standing upon its convenient tail, with mouth wide open as if for another Jonah, is the latest thing in china umbrella stands. Unmounted photographs of celebrated art works, lying loose on the best parlor table, are represented to be quite the fashionable paper just now. Hanging brass clocks, eight day time, have been introduced with great success. They are genteel and modest, with their hands always before their faces!

The skin or fur of every kind of animal, except the donkey, seems to be utilized for rugs nowadays, so that one's house looks like a dime museum or inanimate menagerie.

Diamonds in the street are now declared to be "vulgar," and no lady's ears should be "disfigured" by them. This does not apply to Rhine stones or the bright gems from Alaska.

Trains are coming in fashion again for all full dress or ceremonious occasions with the rapidity of the "Chicago limited." It is declared that the train and bustle go admirably together.

Bellows for hanging on the brass fenders in front of wood fireplaces are made of every kind of wood and ornamented, decorated and embellished according to individual insanity.

There is merit in a satirical kind created by the appearance of some young ladies wearing the Turkish "fez." Probably the wearers are ignorant of the traditions of the red headgear.

"There is a young society lady in town who uses aniseed for perfume on her handkerchief to convey the perpetual idea that she has just returned from a 'fox hunt' on Long Island."

Some new note-paper has in the upper left-hand corner a picture of a pussy with a ball of twine, which unravelling forms the words, "My dear—," and here the writer finishes it.

The "Fall Mail draw," now indispensable to the modern Anglo-American social, top floor, back room, meals at club, begins one inch below the last waistcoat button and ends just under the chin.

Those interesting creatures, ladies just home from Paris, state that the grand dames there are wearing the back hair in innumerable loops. This brings sorrow to the heart of the short-haired girl.

Evening gloves for ladies run from four to twenty-two buttons, and from the length of them the inference is that they come above the shoulder. Unfortunately, however, they are not that kind of gloves.

Hyacinths in Glasses.

Some years ago I was called upon to furnish every year, three dozen hyacinths for a London conservatory. There was no fixed time for them to be in flower, but they were required to be in the best possible condition, that is to say, the spikes of flowers were expected to be fairly uniform in height and well developed. I tried various plans of growing, but I found I had much the best results when the glasses were filled with water in the usual way, with the base of the bulb just touching the water and then burying the glass, bulb and all, in the ground close to a warm wall, the top of the bulbs being uniform depth of two inches under the surface. This was done about the middle of October. In frosty weather old mats were placed over them, or long litter, according to the severity of the frost, and that was all the attention which they had while they remained there. As a rule, the leaves were peeping through the soil about the middle of February, and this was the signal to take them up. They were then taken to a cool greenhouse and kept dark for a few days, when they were gradually allowed more air, and this treatment was continued until they came into flower, and I think finer hyacinths could not possibly be grown in water than they were.—Vick's Magazine for December.

A Grand Parlor Entertainment.

The new game, "Captus" has been very much improved, and its dimensions reduced so that it can now be played in structed that it can be taken apart and stowed away when not in use. The balls are much larger than pool balls, and the cue is altogether different, having a concave head which fits snugly upon the ball, and with which even an inexperienced person can make a very accurate shot.

One of the recent improvements is an extra ball called the "Duminy" which is placed upon any part of the table at the discretion of the player to the front; and adds very much to the scientific points of the game. The game can be played by two, four, or eight players, at a time, and is very amusing and fascinating to spectators as well as to participants.

The manufacture of these tables has already begun, and although considerable expense has been incurred, and the game is protected by patents, it is the intention of the inventor to place it within the reach of all.
